Red Cross Drive Ends Sat., April 11; Tot. Above 1952

Antioch's Red Cross annual drive for funds is well ahead of last year's total of $907, according to Mrs. Henry Ruggles, township chairman. Mrs. Ruggles reports that more than $1250 has been received to date and that more is expected before the drive officially ends Saturday, April 11.

A meeting of township chairmen of the county was held in Waukegan Tuesday evening and it was found that Antioch was well up on the list of collections.

Mrs. Ruggles said that businessmen and industries had been very generous to the drive and that this was partly responsible for the success of the drive.

Ladies who were at the Antioch banks Saturday were Mrs. Donald Stowe, Mrs. John Brogan, Mrs. John Horan and Mrs. William Roseng.

Saturday was the last day the workers will be stationed at the banks.

Antioch Postoffice is Briefed on Changeover to First Class July 1

A postal inspector spent the past week at the Antioch office giving instructions for the change-over from a second class office to a first class office on July 1.

Postmaster Roy Kufalk said there is a difference in the nature of the bookkeeping between the two classifications. He said he was quite familiar with some of the procedure because it is much like the change from a third class to a second class office.

Kufalk said that the business of the office for the first quarter has increased approximately 10 per cent over the first quarter of last year.

Town Election at Lake Villa Gains Voters Attention

Spirited Campaign Being Waged for Supervisor

Town elections, set for Tuesday, April 7 at Lake Villa, are attracting more interest throughout the lake region than in many years. Although a regular slate had filed for office, with but one independent candidate, Ed. J. Kidera, Lake Villa building contractor, has entered the race for supervisor on a write-in basis and has waged a vigorous campaign by direct mail and newspaper advertising.

Heading the regular slate for town clerk is Edward Tiede, at present town clerk, and candidate for supervisor to succeed Arthur Bennett, who declined to run for reelection. William Petersen is the lone candidate for town clerk to succeed Tiede.

Three candidates have filed for the three offices of justice of the peace. They are George L. Mosby, Carl A. Meinersmann and Reeves Loomis.

Kenneth Barnstable has filed independently for constable, opposing Fred H. Popp, Arthur K. Olsen, and Austin Norling.

Everett P. Gallager is unopposed for the office of town tax collector, as are Warren O. Brown and Mary Appleby for library director. Eric Anderson is a candidate for school trustee.

With the exception of Kidera and Barnstable, no candidates have come forth to challenge the Citizens Party. Kidera, in a statement made today said that "township elections are controlled not by the number of people that come out and vote but by the number that stay at home. Year after year the voters are handed a ballot with no choice."

He added that "the politicians are certain that the voters are too disinterested and not smart enough to run a successful write-in campaign. I don't believe it, I have confidence in the intelligence of the people."

Tiede's answer to the challenge that the ballot for the coming election was not properly prepared, is the publication of a specimen in this issue of the News.

General interest in the election is high and it is believed that a large number of voters will be on hand next Tuesday when the polls open.

Finley Says Antioch H. S. Much Improved; Urges Better Light

State School Official Is Pleased With Progress Made in Year

Eldon D. Finley, assistant superintendent of the supervisory department of the State office of Public Instruction, recently visited Antioch Township High school to determine and supervise the existing program. This is in line with plans made last year, when the state office made an official visit to the school.

Mr. Finley was accompanied by William Thompson, of the Lake County Superintendent's office.

Finley spent an entire day at the school and visited classes as well as spending some time inspecting the new building and repairs to the old building.

A part of the report, sent to the school, was released to the Antioch News this week and the parts of Mr. Finley's letter submitted follow:

"On March 11, accompanied by Mr. William Thompson, I had the pleasure of visiting the Antioch Township High school and would like to submit the following report for your consideration.

"Since our visitation last year, the new addition and some remodeling have been completed which provide new facilities for physical education, music, commerce, industrial arts, cafeteria, library, auditorium, general offices, and some general class rooms. As was pointed out in our visitation letter last year, every effort should be made to bring the old building up to the standards of the new addition.

The decorative scheme used in the new addition should also be extended to include the old part. Floors in classrooms and halls need to be improved. Lighting is very poor in the halls and some classrooms of the original building. Acoustical treatment of ceilings should be considered for the girls' gymnasium, library, cafeteria, and halls. I was glad to find your administrator has a long list of needed improvements which he expects to present to the Board of Education for consideration in a long range program.

"The principal of this school is serving his first year as an administrator in this district. He is a well-trained and capable administrator. The school appears to be well organized. I was very happy to find a much improved student attitude and a greatly improved esprit de corps among the staff. Every effort should be made to continue the improvement of student attitude. I was glad to hear that the Board of Education and the staff have been meeting together to discuss problems and to formulate administrative practices and philosophy. I am sure you are finding this most beneficial in developing closer working relationships."

Schools Close for Easter Vacation of Two and Four Days

Public schools in Antioch will close this afternoon for the Easter vacation and will resume classes Tuesday.

St. Peter's Parochial school closed at noon yesterday and will resume classes next Wednesday.

At Antioch Grade School, a puppet show "Sleeping Beauty," was presented yesterday afternoon between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. to all of the children from the kindergarten through eighth grade by the Cole Marionettes.

The expense of the exhibition was borne by the fund raised through magazine subscriptions taken by the children.

The grade school buses left this afternoon at 2 and 2:20 o'clock. Pupils of St. Peter's school will attend Easter services at the church at 8 a. m. tomorrow the same as they did today. There was a procession of altar boys and girls.

Board to Approve All Plans for School Today

The board of education of Antioch Grade school will meet with the architects, Ganster and Hennighausen this evening in establishing final plans for the new addition to the school.

It is expected that if the plans are satisfactory the board will seek bids on them by April 15.

SPRING FEVER PERMITTED STARTING SATURDAY

June 7 Set as Date for Civil Defense Alert for Antioch

Director Horan Told to Prepare Region for Alert Test

County Civilian Defense Director Richard Willer has set June 7 as date on which the Antioch area will have its test alert.

John L. Horan, local director, has been given the go-ahead signal to begin a program of education and information in preparation for Alert Day and this, he said, calls for a public meeting the last of this month.

Horan said that the defense program for this community has two aspects. It involves a winter population of year-around residents and a summer population of vacationers, which calls for different approaches.

The defense is based on first of all an aerial bombardment of Chicago and the handling of crowds either rushing from the city or the giving of aid there.

Summer packed highways will present greater traffic problem than those during winter.

Willer is having local test alerts this year rather than a central alert as was conducted last year.

Horan may include in the local alert an area as far west as Spring Grove.

Write-in Campaign Necessary to Provide Police Magistrate

A write-in campaign will be necessary if Antioch is to have a police magistrate.

Village Attorney Edward C. Jacobs reminded the village board this week that no provision had been made for the election of a police magistrate and no candidate has filed for the office.

The board was unaware that the term of E. E. Brook is expiring.

As the result friends have found a willingness on the part of Mr. Brook to take the office again, and they are passing the word around for a write-in of his name in a blank space left for that office.

Mrs. Mary Moos, 72, Resident of Salem, Was Buried Monday

Mrs. Mary Moos, 72, Salem, Wis., died Thursday, March 26, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Spears, following a lingering illness. She was born Jan. 14, 1871 in Luxemburg. She came to the United States at the age of 17, settling in Chicago, and moving to Salem in the year of 1934.

Survivors are a daughter, Mary Spears, Salem, a son Nicholas of Trevor, and two grandchildren. Her husband, Nicholas preceded her in death Feb. 24, 1935. Funeral services were held at one o'clock p. m. Monday at the Strang funeral home. Burial was in Liberty cemetery.

March Slightly Warmer

Temperatures for March were a little bit higher than normal but in the main, taking into consideration the amount of rainfall the month was average, according to Co-operative Observer Roy Kufalk.

The highest temperature was 75 degrees on the twenty-first and the lowest 9 degrees on the seventh. The total rainfall was 2.26 inches. March neither went out as a lion or a lamb.

Election Tuesday to Select New Township Officers and Officials

Annual Town Meeting Is Set for April 7, 2:00 P. M.

A large number of voters of the township are expected at the polls next Tuesday, April 7, when a town clerk, assessor, five justices of the peace, five constables, a town tax collector and two library trustees will be elected.

Four polling places will accommodate Antioch's four precincts. Precinct one voters will cast their ballots at the Fire Station in Antioch; Precinct 2 polling place is at the Antioch Village hall; Precinct 3 voters will go to Lotus school and Precinct 4 polling place is at the Grass Lake school.

Because of the large number of candidates it seems that a large number of voters will flock to the polls. An increase in the number of justices and constables from two to five has brought out a good field of candidates for these offices.

Heading the ballot is Llewellyn Van Patten, Jr., running without opposition for re-election as town clerk. John P. Miller is the lone candidate for township assessor. Miller has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Ernest Simons, which will expire Dec. 31, 1953.

Eight candidates' names appear on the ballot for the five justice of the peace posts. They are John Brogan and William Herbert, incumbents and Clarence F. Spiering, Clarence J. Verkest, John J. Delany, Robert T. Wright, Anton L. Deutsch, Jr., and Richard Folbrick.

The seven candidates for the five constable jobs are Peter J. Matteoni, Joseph Chiffio, Richard D. Eckert, Julius M. Hahn, Edward J. Flanagan, incumbent, running for re-election, Louis Smoe and Gile Edwards.

A good campaign is being waged for the Town tax collector job, with incumbent John L. Horan opposed by Walker H. Curnes and Edith Elms. Horan has held the job since it was established by Illinois statute about 12 years ago, and has had no opposition prior to this election. Both Curnes and Elms are well known here and the outcome of this race is uncertain, since it is believed that all three candidates will poll a large number of votes.

Helen K. Scott and Roy D. Williams are unopposed for library trustees.

Town Meeting at 2 P. M.

The annual town meeting will be held at the Antioch village hall at 2 p. m. the day of the election at which time reports for the coming year will be set up.

New Slogan Sparks April Fund Drive

"Cancer strikes one in five—strike back—give" is the official slogan of the 1953 April Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

Posters bearing this message in a brightly colored design will be placed throughout Antioch and Lake Villa this week, it was announced by Mrs. Elvin Keulman, Antioch chairman, and Mrs. John Perry, Lake Villa chairman, of the fund raising campaign.

"This appeal," the chairman said, "was selected because it includes all the facts believed necessary in asking people to give combat such a well-known and common enemy as cancer."

"When we urge people to fight cancer," they said, "it is an appeal to actively do something about the disease that annually kills more than 220,000 Americans."

"When anyone is engaged in conflict, he strikes back and puts forth every effort to conquer the enemy. That is exactly what we are hoping everyone who reads this poster will do."

Acting as co-chairmen with Mrs. Keulman are Mrs. Richard Seyfarth and Mrs. Lester Osmond, Jr. No house-to-house canvass will be made this year, but letters enclosing return envelopes have been mailed out to all residents of the community, and a tag day will help raise funds later in the month.

Antioch's quota for this year is $600. Last year the drive was well over the quota and Antioch had one of the highest percentages in Lake county.

Economic Highlights

"We know now that Dwight Eisenhower was speaking with some conscious exactness when he used the word 'crusade' to describe his career as soldier, candidate and President," wrote columnist Holmes Alexander recently. "The emphasis on militant morality or conquest for righteousness, already noted by Mr. Eisenhower's friends, is now being remarked upon by his opponents."

It is this crusading spirit which, more than any particular and specific issue, distinguishes the Eisenhower administration from its immediate predecessors. And it is the crusading spirit which is giving substance, unity and direction to the policies, aims and actions of both the President and the men who are close to him.

The new President is a deeply religious man, and ancient religious principles heavily influence his thinking. To quote Mr. Alexander again, "His own ancestors were members of a minority sect which migrated from Pennsylvania into Texas and Kansas, believing in the dignity of toil and never whimpering for the cold charity which governments often give in return for subservience. . . . Much of the President's hatred of Nazism and Communism seems to stem from the godlessness of those systems."

Here, certainly, is a key to what we expect of the Eisenhower leadership in both domestic and world affairs. And it does much to explain what the administration is now doing or trying to do in widely varied fields.

The President, for example, wants economical government, thrifty government. And this is not only because it would save the taxpayers' money, important as that is. Going beyond the realm of dollars and cents, the President is convinced that the attitude of mind which encourages or fails to prevent waste and prodigality is the attitude of mind that could lead to a breakdown of the national fiber and result in national ruin. He looks on graft and corruption in government—whether it be represented by the gift of a fur coat or a deal involving millions—in much the same way.

The President is also, it is clear, a firm believer in the idea that the Lord helps those who help themselves. He is 100 per cent opposed to the "give-away" philosophy.

We have seen some very significant examples of that since the administration took office. One is in the Department of Agriculture. Secretary Benson made it plain that, in his estimation, price supports for farm products should be regarded as emergency measures, not as something farmers have coming as a matter of course. Some loud howls greeted this, but the Secretary got many a pat on the back as well.

Another is in the State Department. Nobody has a stronger desire to cement and strengthen the anti-communist countries than Mr. Dulles. Nobody is more certain that the existence of the free world depends on this. But he made it clear that the Western European powers must do much more than has been the case so far, both to reconcile their differences and to build their military strength. The American Treasury, he pointed out in effect, is not a bottomless well.

Finally, the general principle back of the Eisenhower program as a whole is that government should not do what private enterprise or local government or individuals themselves can do. He wants less centralized government, not more. He wants the people to be self-reliant instead of dependent. It looks now as if this idea will be the hallmark of his administration.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

You know folks there are grounds for being dubious about how much wind or how much meat there was or is in the gusty talks we been exposed to by the lawmakers of this our native land. If we figure economy is in, and recklessness in spending our tax dinero is out the window—and we settle down to paying for our past 20 year spree—we are not as bright and alert or suspicious as folks should be, who have been so recent-like 3-shelled so fluently. If we take an eye off congress and don't turn a hand to help put a padlock on the U. S. Treasury door, we are headed for the cleaners again. The boys down there—the loose spending crew—is holding its breath and feeling its way to see if it detects rumblings of discontent from out in the hustings, or if all is quiet.

Today, before they deduct that we are sound asleep again, it is time to dip the pen in the old ink bottle and say, "look-it bub, why did you vote last week to have Sambo shell out more deficiency millions to tide the same old Govt. goings-on till June." Ask 'em that.

If we don't make congress take up the slack—right at the start—it will be the same old army game all over again—we will go home in our usual regalia—a barrel.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

What Is Magnetism?

A material such as iron is made up of a multitude of minute magnets, called magnetic domains. Ordinarily they are in random positions. The effect of one neutralizes that of another and they all cancel out. When the bar is placed in a magnetic field (produced, for example, by an electromagnet) these domains tend to line up and the bar is magnetized.

SHORT STORY

Resort Girl

By Clarence Sydney

BEN tugged up his swim trunks and scowled his anger at the same idea that had been nagging at him for almost two weeks. His features were set as he gazed across the pool at the girl and the man.

3-Minute Fiction

The man was typical—the balding head, the ever-widening waistline, the flamboyant swim trunks—all served notice on the other guests that here was a successful business man who had entered what is called "the dangerous age."

But it was the girl that made Ben's face stern. There was nothing flashy about her. She had nothing of the "resort girl" stamp about her, except the way she clung to the man. You never saw them apart—except early in the morning, when she came down for a swim.

It was at those early morning swims that Ben had met her. Her smile and her fresh beauty stopped his heart in its beat. It was that surrender that had made his face harden when he first saw them together. He was angered to see the way she was always with him.

He had worked it to sit with them, the day everyone took the bus down to the old ruins. He had gone into it with two ideas. The one he told himself was to make himself sick of her by being with her and her companion. And the real reason—the one he wouldn't even admit to himself—was that he hoped somehow to make her fall for him.

He felt sick at her actions, but after the day was over, he was more in love with her than ever. The man was brusque, his humor crude and unfunny, but she laughed on cue. She seconded all his insane suggestions, such as playing that silly question game which no one enjoyed but the old man.

Ben clamped his jaws together. He couldn't stand anymore of that fawning attention she gave the old buzzard. He turned back to the hotel and started packing. He was throwing away two weeks of the richest life he had ever lived, but his prize could be handed. For six months, Ben had led the race in sales for the company, and this was his prize—a month at this resort with the company picking up the check. And now she had soured it. With her rapt attention to everything that tub of lard said, her constant obedience at his every burlesque command, Ben hated whatever made the type of girl who flattered an ugly old man into spending money lavishly for her.

Packed, he stalked out with his bags, and the elevator deposited him in the lobby. "Why, Ben," a voice said.

Ben turned to see her smiling face. "I thought you had another two weeks."

Ben started to push past, then stopped. He glanced around. "Where's the old buzzard?"

She laughed at his tone. "He's over at the desk—checking out. Oh, here he comes."

"Well, Ben, boy. Are you leaving?" the old man asked.

"Yes sir. I feel rather out of place here. You see, I'm here on the company, as an award. I don't belong."

The old man grinned. "You hear that Nancy? I told you he was not a playboy. He earned his month here by hard work. She had the idea you were one of those 'idle rich'." He stopped and smiled at Nancy. "You've got two more weeks of that award, haven't you, boy? Nancy, you've got two weeks coming. Why not spend it here—as an award for some good hard work you've had to do. It seems to me you and Ben might find you have a lot in common. It's on the company, of course."

Ben's jaw went slack. "You mean—" he stammered. "You mean that she—that you and she—that you—"

"Best private secretary a man ever had. You want that vacation, don't you, Nancy?"

Her eyes were shining as she answered, never taking her eyes off Ben. "Yes sir. That is, if Ben does have two more weeks."

"She'll take them, boss man." Ben answered happily. But the old man had already gone.

SOCIETY EVENTS

Christians to Renew Faith Through Services Leading Up to Easter

Today marks the beginning of the climax in the observance of the Easter season in Antioch religious circles.

Known to Christians as Maundy Thursday, today marks the occasion of the last supper and the washing of the feet of the disciples by Jesus of Nazareth.

Tomorrow as Good Friday recalls the day of Christ's crucifixion and the three hours he hung on the cross.

Sunday will be observed as the anniversary of the day on which he is credited with having arisen, giving validity to his divinity.

All Antioch churches will observe the phases of the climatic moments. Special services will be held this weekend, and large crowds are in attendance.

And while the Good News is being proclaimed, word has come from Amman, Jordan, telling of the finding of 70 Biblical scrolls believed 2,000 years old which were unearthed in caves overlooking the Dead Sea. They have been described as the most sensational archaeological event of the time, and one that will keep the next generation busy pondering and discussing the translations and significance of these unique documents.

TWO EASTER SERVICES PLANNED FOR ANTIOCH METHODIST CHURCH

Two identical Easter services, one at 9:30 and the other at 11 o'clock will be held at the Methodist church in Antioch on Sunday morning. Special Easter music will be provided by the robed choir under the direction of Charles B. Watson. The choir will sing, "Christ Is Eternal" and the "King of Kings." The Rev. G. Richard Tuttle, minister of the church, will speak on the subject, "Christ Is Risen Today." All are cordially invited. A nursery for small children will be provided at both the 9:30 and the 11 o'clock services. The church school will meet as usual at 9:30 on Sunday morning. An Easter pageant under the direction of Mrs. Elmer Hunter will be presented in Wesley hall by the Intermediates and Juniors during church school.

Easter Sunrise Service
Cars will leave the church at 6 on Easter morning for the now-traditional Easter Sunrise service at Fox River Park sponsored by the Youth Fellowship. All are invited to attend. Following the service there will be an Easter breakfast in Wesley hall. Those desiring to attend the breakfast must have reservations. They may be made by calling Antioch 517.

Special Services
Special Holy Week services will be held at the church in Antioch on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. A candle-light Maundy Thursday Communion service will be held at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening in the church. On Good Friday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a special service with colored pictures and music. All are welcome.

Library News

Justice Douglas, in "Beyond the Himalayas," has written a travel book in the richest sense of the term. With his insatiable curiosity about people and places, he tells of the three-cornered battle between communism, tradition and democracy with intimate and colorful descriptions of the people involved. He points out the imminent danger of communism taking over this large segment of the earth's population and the fight that America must make to prevent it. "Beyond the High Himalayas" was given to the Antioch Township Library in memory of Mrs. Robert C. Abt.

Edward R. Murrow believes that men and women will live happier lives if they deliberately decide what they want from life—materially, and spiritually. "This I Believe," edited by Edward P. Morgan, is a collection of one hundred of the best of the personal philosophies Mr. Murrow has discovered among the many hundreds contributed to "This I Believe" on the air and in the newspapers. "This I Believe" was given to the library in memory of Mrs. Esther Curtis.

Miss Betty Jean McDougall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McDougall, Antioch, was elected social chairman of Beta Alpha chapter of Alpha Phi Fraternity at the recent midyear elections held in the chapter house at the University of Illinois. Miss McDougall is enrolled as a junior in Home Economics. She is president of Province VI of the American Home Economics association, an associate member of Terapin, and works on Social Forums, Y. W. Motor Club Urges Passage of Laws Regulating Lights

Changes in the Illinois traffic law pertaining to lights on moving vehicles have been suggested by the Chicago Motor club.

At present Illinois law requires that between sunset and sunrise every motor vehicle shall display two lighted lamps "visible at least 500 feet in the direction" the vehicle is proceeding. This requirement is intended to enable pedestrians and other motorists to see the car approaching. It does not mean that the lights on an automobile shall aid the driver to see objects ahead of him. Two candles casting their light for 500 feet would fulfill the requirements of the present law.

The changes proposed by the Chicago Motor club will require motorists to drive with lights of such intensity that they would be able to see at least 200 feet ahead. This means that the present practice of driving with parking lights would be prohibited. Today, driving with parking lights does not conflict with the law.

Another portion of the bill would make it mandatory to have lights not only during the period from sunset to sunrise, but at any time when there is not sufficient light to provide visibility for 500 feet ahead, such as during rainstorms, fogs, drizzle or other adverse weather conditions.

Christians to Renew Faith Through Services Leading Up to Easter

Today marks the beginning of the climax in the observance of the Easter season in Antioch religious circles.

Known to Christians as Maundy Thursday, today marks the occasion of the last supper and the washing of the feet of the disciples by Jesus of Nazareth.

Tomorrow as Good Friday recalls the day of Christ's crucifixion and the three hours he hung on the cross.

Sunday will be observed as the anniversary of the day on which he is credited with having arisen, giving validity to his divinity.

All Antioch churches will observe the phases of the climatic moments. Special services will be held this weekend, and large crowds are in attendance.

And while the Good News is being proclaimed, word has come from Amman, Jordan, telling of the finding of 70 Biblical scrolls believed 2,000 years old which were unearthed in caves overlooking the Dead Sea. They have been described as the most sensational archaeological event of the time, and one that will keep the next generation busy pondering and discussing the translations and significance of these unique documents.

TWO EASTER SERVICES PLANNED FOR ANTIOCH METHODIST CHURCH

Two identical Easter services, one at 9:30 and the other at 11 o'clock will be held at the Methodist church in Antioch on Sunday morning. Special Easter music will be provided by the robed choir under the direction of Charles B. Watson. The choir will sing, "Christ Is Eternal" and the "King of Kings."

The Rev. G. Richard Tuttle, minister of the church, will speak on the subject, "Christ Is Risen Today." All are cordially invited. A nursery for small children will be provided at both the 9:30 and the 11 o'clock services. The church school will meet as usual at 9:30 on Sunday morning. An Easter pageant under the direction of Mrs. Elmer Hunter will be presented in Wesley hall by the Intermediates and Juniors during church school.

Easter Sunrise Service
Cars will leave the church at 6 on Easter morning for the now-traditional Easter Sunrise service at Fox River Park sponsored by the Youth Fellowship. All are invited to attend. Following the service there will be an Easter breakfast in Wesley hall. Those desiring to attend the breakfast must have reservations. They may be made by calling Antioch 517.

Special Services
Special Holy Week services will be held at the church in Antioch on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. A candle-light Maundy Thursday Communion service will be held at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening in the church. On Good Friday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a special service with colored pictures and music. All are welcome.

During that time he has served in almost every capacity, acting as chief several times and as president. He will be awarded a gold star. George Garland has been an active member since 1914, and has been treasurer since 1921. Also mentioned for long years of service was Clarence Shultis, a member since 1920. Above is shown the original piece of motorized fire fighting equipment, purchased in 1921 and retired about six years ago when the latest truck was delivered. Van Patten is on the running board of the truck.

DUKE'S MIXTURE

Easter Time Thoughts.

I am not unappreciative of the fact that Easter will soon be here, and many, many beautiful poems will appear in print. . . and that's as it should be, yet for some unknown reason, I have a yen to revive Gordon Seagrove's "Hymn of Hate from Hattie." I hope you don't mind, too much.

Wherever you are this Easter, egg, I hope you're in trouble, trouble a pile, And you're so busted you have to beg Or maybe steal (that's more your style). You bet I mean it. If you was a man, Instead of kind of a household pest; You wouldn't a done what you done to me, That gave you her trust and all the rest.

It ain't that I miss the money you took For that Easter suit that had made me sigh; It ain't that I loved a false alarm; But Honey, why didn't you say "Good bye"? It wouldn't a hurt . . . if you was a man You'd done it. But no, You're just a yegg; So luck . . . the worst . . . you understand, Wherever you are this Easter, egg.

Unk's at It Again Each time Uncle Charley pays a visit to his brother in the East, he invariably returns with some pretty fair yarns. This last time he kept harping about how the Easterners are so particular (persnickety, he calls it), and naturally he had a concrete example to back up his statement. According to Charley, this is what happened: A man went into a baker shop and ordered a cake. "Yes," said the baker, "a cake?" "But," stipulated the man, "I want a very special cake. I want it made in the form of the letter S. Can that be done?" "Certainly," said the baker, "most certainly. Two dollars." "All right," said the man and away he went. The next day he came back and the baker proudly exhibited a most beautiful cake. "That's just fine," said the man, "but that's an old English S. What I want . . . and I thought I told you . . . is a script S." "Oh, a script S," said the baker. "Well, that can be done. Come back tomorrow and I'll have it." The next day the man returned and the baker, prouder than ever, displayed a still more beautiful cake, iced and decorated in the form of a graceful script S. The man examined it most carefully and viewed all sides, and at last professed himself satisfied. "Shall I send it?" asked the baker, "or will you take it with you?" "Oh, replied the man, "DON'T BOTHER, I'LL JUST EAT IT RIGHT HERE." In Memoriam

Good old Heuroutien Heracopian, who ran a restaurant in our town is dead. How he could cook! And how everyone praised his cooking! Heuroutien, who looked about nine feet high and fully as wide, would march in after the meal had been spread before the customer, and leaning on a huge butcher knife about as large as a cavalry sword, would say: "HOW YOU LIKE THEESE FOOD?" And everyone would always shout: "SPLENDID!" Bon Solr, Heuroutien. Famous Last Words:

"My good wife," says Ex-governor Adlai Stevenson, speaking of Mrs. Stevenson who divorced him. And now the Duchess claims that any woman who permits her husband to refer to her as "my good wife" deserves to be divorced.

SHORT STORY

Rain On The Roof

By Harley Davis

THE INSTANT Jerry saw the girl he was glad it was raining. Because while it rained no one would want to go swimming and he wouldn't have to exhibit his spindling legs. The interest she had exhibited in him from the moment they were introduced would, he felt, sure vanish at her first glimpse of him in a bathing suit. Thus arrayed he was almost monstrously. When the Burdons asked him up to their camp on Merrytime Island for a week-end he was tremendously pleased. He liked the outdoors, liked camp life, liked the Burdons and their friends. When they told him the Hodgsons were coming and they were bringing Edna Hodgson's younger sister it didn't spoil his anticipation of a good time much, either. But that was before he had met Doris Hodgson, the younger sister.

Despite the rain they had a jolly time that evening. Dinner was served before the great stone fireplace. It was warm and cozy. Afterward they played games and danced to radio music. A feeling of good fellowship and camaraderie prevailed. Jerry had never been so happy in his life. He forgot all about his spindling legs. Even the fact that Tom Moore was there didn't spoil his happiness. Tom was tall and handsome and shaped like an Adonis. He was something to look at in a bathing suit. He was a marvel at all sports. But tonight he didn't. Doris Hodgson didn't give him any time. She had eyes only for Jerry. They danced together six times. They went out on the porch and watched the rain. They kissed. Jerry was deliriously happy. He'd never felt this way before, never knew what love was like. Later, in bed, he lay awake listening to the beat of rain on the roof. And every drop brought joy to his soul.

Bright sunlight streaming in at his bedroom window roused Jerry to wakefulness. He sat up, blinking, staring through the window at the glories of a sparklingly brilliant morning. He couldn't believe it. Last night, late last night, it had been pouring. All indications pointed to at least a three-day rain. And here it was bright and clear! One of those miserable freaks of New England climate.

Gloomily he dressed. Every one was in the gayest of spirits, and, as he feared, immediately after breakfast someone suggested a swim. Tom Moore suggested it, eyeing Jerry smilingly, triumphantly.

There wasn't much Jerry could do. He had to be a good sport. A poor sport was worse than—well, than resenting being laughed at.

Jerry sat on the edge of the pier and dangled his legs. He felt like a nickel. Nobody had laughed yet, because all but Doris were used to him. But pretty soon, he knew, Tom Moore would attract attention to his legs by some remark, and then Doris would look—and that would be the end.

Tom was swimming back to the float with clean, swift strokes. He came half way up the ladder, clung to a rung, leaned out and looked at Jerry's legs, grinning evilly. "It's a wonder," he said, "that those shanks of yours can hold you up, Jerry."

Tom mounted to the top platform and posed again. Jerry burned with envy. He was so absorbed in watching Tom and envying him that he didn't realize that Doris came and sat down beside him.

"Is this an exhibition?" she asked, "or can we all take part?" She was looking at his spindling legs. Jerry flushed and a wave of anger and indignation stole over him.

"It isn't my fault," he said defensively. "If there were anything I could do about it I most certainly would."

She looked at him queerly. She laughed. "Why, I don't expect you to do anything. You're not the host. But I don't think they'd mind if we didn't stay here and watch him. After all, they're not paying him to perform."

Jerry's mouth fell open. He stared. He looked up at Tom. He looked back at the girl. He bounded to his feet. "Glory be!" he exclaimed in joyful relief, "let's take a walk."

"I'd love to," said Doris.
